

PARTICIPANT INFORMATION SHEET

WORK HABITS

Welcome and thank you for considering taking part in this study! Please read the information below and indicate your consent on the next page before proceeding.

STUDY BACKGROUND

You are being asked to take part in a research study on people's habits in the sphere of work. In recent years there has been an emergence of new ways of interacting with the job market. Online job platforms, such as LinkedIn, have become an integral part of many people's work lives. We want to investigate the effects this has had on the ways in which people interact with and feel within this area of their lives.

WHAT YOU ARE BEING ASKED TO DO

If you decide to take part in this study, you will be asked to fill in three questionnaires. The first questionnaire asks for some demographic information, specifically age, gender, ethnicity and occupation. It then goes on to ask a few short-answer questions about your usage of LinkedIn. The next two questionnaires focus on your emotions in the sphere of work more generally. In these two questionnaires each question consists of a statement and a scale. You are asked to select the number on the scale which most accurately represents to what extent you agree with the provided statement.

WHAT ARE THE RISKS AND BENEFITS OF TAKING PART?

There are no specific risks to this study over and above those experienced in every day encounters. Whilst there are no direct benefits of taking part, it is hoped that this study will advance knowledge in the area of people's work habits.

YOUR RIGHT TO WITHDRAW AND WITHHOLD INFORMATION

In line with the regulations outlined by the British Psychological Society, you can stop being a part of the research study at any time without explanation. You can also have your data withdrawn from the time you complete until 31/03/2023 by which time your data will have been analysed and written up. Please see contact details below if you wish to withdraw. During the study, you also have the right to omit or refuse to answer or respond to any question that is asked of you.

YOUR RIGHT TO CONFIDENTIALITY/ANONYMITY

The study will not involve the collection of any personal information about you except age, gender, ethnicity and occupation.

Any personal information given will be unidentifiable to an external party. No identifiable information, such as your name, IP address or exact location will be stored. Your data will be stored using a personalised anonymous code: You will be given instructions on how to produce this at the beginning of the study.
